TUESDAY, : : : MARCH 16, 1875. SCIENCE AND RELIGION. So much Interest was recently excited among the attendants at Calvary church (Episcopal), in this city, by a discourse there on the aspects science and religion bear to each other, that since that time the eloquent rector of that church has delivered other sermons, showing the claims the christian faith has upon the attention of the world, and developing the impregnable chain of evidence with which that faith is sustained. On Sunday evening last Rev. Mr. Harris, of St. Mary's church, delivered a discourse at Calvary, the extraordinary merits of which have gained for it unusual admiration. The subject was the credibility of miracles, and it was discussed, not from the backneyed and rarely satisfactory standpoint of mere theology, but from the objector's own point of view. Scientific facts and natural analogies were brought forward with an accuracy that showed the attainments of the speaker, and with a logical arrangement that manifested his ability to marshal his argumentative squadrons on the field, and hurl them with telling effect on the point of attack. Another feature in Mr. Harris's admirable essay was the absence of technical expressions, and the choice of Anglo-Saxon words rather than foreign derivatives. By this means what was forcible was also clear, and what was clear was also beautiful. The application of the celebrated argument from experience of the Scotch metaphysician, Hume, to the case of modern inventions was masterly and convincing;

JOHN MITCHELL, again elected to the English parliament from Tipperary, will again, so doubt, be refused a seat by the government. Only a few days ago a motion was made by John Martin, member of parliament, calling for papers to show that the jury which tried Mitchell in 1848 had been packed. In this speech Mr. Martin, who, by the way, was a compatriot of Mitchell, made an earnest appeal in behalf of a separate parliament for Ireland, the same as is now proposed by Canada and Australia. The government replied that it could not produce the papers, and that it would be a bad precedent for the house of commons to try over again a decided by a court and jury in Dublin, A notable circumstance was the speech of Mr. Smyth, who declared, from his own knowledge, that the statement that Mr. Mitchell had broken his parole, in escaping from Australia, was untrue. Mr. Mitchell has, in the meantime, delivered a lecture in Cork upon Irish polities, being so feeble on the occasion that he could not read his address, an office which was performed by a friend. From such a man, worn down by the anxieties, fears and disappointments of a stormy life, the English government has nothing to fear, and we think the best thing D'sraell can do is to withdraw all opposition to him and let him take his seat. It is now nearly twenty-seven years since Mitchell committed the offense for which he was transported. Great changes have taken place since then. A generation of men have entered upon the arena of British politics, and much that Mitchell contended for in the way of reform has been granted. We believe, therefore, that the British government can afford to be magnanimous and withdraw its opposition to the honors which his countrymen desire to press upon Mr. Mitchell. It would be a graceful concession by Disraeli to the Irish people, and one that would not be lost service for the truth.

THE New Orleans Times of Saturday does not think the present indications threaten an unusual overflow, "although night was within eleven feet two inches of the flood hight of last year, at Memphis is within four feet six inches of last spring's flood, and at Cairo is now within six feet six inches of the highest point attained last year, while the Ohio continues to rise slowly. The flood now coming down from the Ohio and tributaries, it is thought, will disappear in the sunk lands and through bayous and crevasses, without greatly increasing the stage of water at New Orleans, which is seven feet four inches below high water | tirely ceased." mark of 1874. Unless it is followed very rapidly by floods from the Arkansas, White and the upper rivers, there is no unusual danger. Still, it is always best to be prepared for the worst, and our planters will do well to protect themselves against contingencies by making every possible preparation against breaks and a repetition of the extraordinary damages of last year."

A PETITION has been presented to the school board praying the restoration of Miss Sue Murphy to the place which she has graced and dignified for so many | chanic in this line and who has some years, as one of the most capable and accomplished of our public school teachers. Arising out of a misapprehension of the facts, her dismissal has been generally regarded as a measure of severity unprecedented in the history of our schools, and wholly unwarranted. THE attention of the authorities of the several counties of this and the adjoining States especially is called to the lengthy and intelligent description in another column of the Heath & Cook patent jails. Once understood no county court will long remain without it. A deserving enterprize we press it as such upon the consideration of the county authorities of all the States of the Union.

THE Little Rock Gazette advises, and we think correctly, that every tax payer who can do so, should not only consider it a patriotic duty, but a duty he owes to himself and his family, to pay his taxes now. Delay only heaps up the burden.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

A Query. EDITORS APPEAL — I see from the last proceedings of the board of the city council that an allowance of three hundred and twelve dollars and fifty cents each was allowed to two sinking fund mmissioners of the city of Memphis. Not understanding the objects or neces-sity of such a commission, I hope some one will explain to the public what are uses and purposes of such a commission for the city at this time? A CITIZEN. The Charges of the New Orleans Times.

NASHVILLE, March II. EDITORS APPEAL-The article from the New Orleans Times, of the seventh, has excited considerable interest here. There are none who believe the charges against the Shelby delegation. I was, as you know, opposed to the election of Mr. Johnson, and was here during the pendency of the senatorial election. There was not then, nor is there now, the slightest suspicion that the mem-bers from Shelby county received, either directly or indirectly, any pecu-niary consideration for their support of Mr. Johnson. They belived themselves to be instructed to vote for him, and among those who disapproved most thoroughly of their course, there were none who suspected that they were influenced by the motives attributed to them by the New Orleans Times. However much I may have differed wiih those gentlemen in their views on constitutional question which had been various questions, I have felt that this much was due them. Yours, WM. J. SYKES.

That Neutralizer of Vaccine. EDITORS APPEAL-I take this method of returning you my sincere thanks for calling public attention, through the columns of your accommodating and popular journal, to my accidental discovery that a saturated syrup of brown sugar will neutralize the virus of vac-cine. I feel much encouraged that it STEAM AND GAS FITTER, may be of public utility in relief of human suffering; indeed, I feel confident of its specific value in controlling all those noxious diseases of the variola family. I am strengthened in this belief by meeting, last evening, in Frank Leslie's Illustrated Newspaper, of May 14, 1864, a similar discovery verging on my proposed plan of application. It speaks for itself. With this evidence of valuable antiseptic power, would it be proper, or asking too much of our honored county court, to order this valuable agent a fair test at our county poorhouse.

If there is value to be obtained from this simple and cheap remedy, let the world have it for all it, is worth. For my part, I am convinced that it will give entire satisfaction as an abortive in those loathsome diseases, if timely and properly applied, aided by other remedies necessary to correct disordered secretions. DR THOS, H. CLARK. The following is the paragraph referred to by our correspondent; "A few years ago a physician of George town, West Indies, examined the body of a man that had been discovered under a heap of cane-trash or the fibrous residue of the canes, and found that the pody emitted no smell, and was dried up like a mummy. He did not at the time proclaim his discovery, but immedistely instituted experiments on dead animals, which completely confirmed his observations. Convinced thereby the river at Vicksburg up to Friday | that by the fermentation of fresh cane trash a disinfecting and antiseptic gas was evolved, he immediately turned his attention to the means of employing the sugar-cane as a preservative against epidemics and contagious diseases, and as a medicinal plant generally. There happened to be at the time a great number of patients suffering from ulcers at the hospital, and a coutagious gangrene had declared itself; the physician caused several tubs containing cane-

Manufactures in Memphis,

EDITORS APPEAL-I noticed in your editorial of the tenth a quasi invitation to citizens to communicate such facts relative to manufactories as they may be possessed of. With the view, therefore, of obtaining some assistance from such of the citizens of Memphis as may be able and feel an interest in building manufactories here, I desire to say through your columns that there is now an effort being made upon the part of a few, in connection with Mr. James Flaherty, to establish here a furniture manufactory for making chairs, etc. I have been shown a letter from a party in New York, who is a practical mecapital, desires to come to Memphis and engage in this enterprise. But in order to carry it through assistance is needed from some of our citizens, say to the amount of twenty thousand dollars. We are in the midst of the finest timbered country on the globe. Abundance of walnut and all other kinds country in need of manufactories it is the one in which we live. You may talk about the amount of cotton handled cotton will remain with us. Several of our citizens are willing, and have agreed to invest some money in this enterprise, but they are not able to furnish all that A CORRESPONDENT sends us an article from the Chicago Inter-Ocean, part

I know you tavor all manufacturing enterprises, and hence I ask space in your columns for this, hoping it may reach the ages of hoping it may reach the eyes of some good citizen of Memphis, who has her interests at heart, has the money, is willing to so invest it, and who will call and see Mr. Flaherty on the subject.
